

Project Newsletter March 2019

Construction activity on The Westin Darwin Hotel is due to commence in the coming weeks, following the recent appointment of Darwin based contractor, McMahon Services Australia NT to complete the first stage of the project.

Early works to prepare the site for the future hotel development will begin with minor road works to widen Anchorage Court to ensure the continued safe operation of the Cruise Ship Terminal.

Stage one works also include the design and construction of the Sea Wall which will provide protection to the development from storm surge, and includes the fully accessible foreshore public pathway along the complete length of the site, as well as diversion and relocation of site services and drainage.

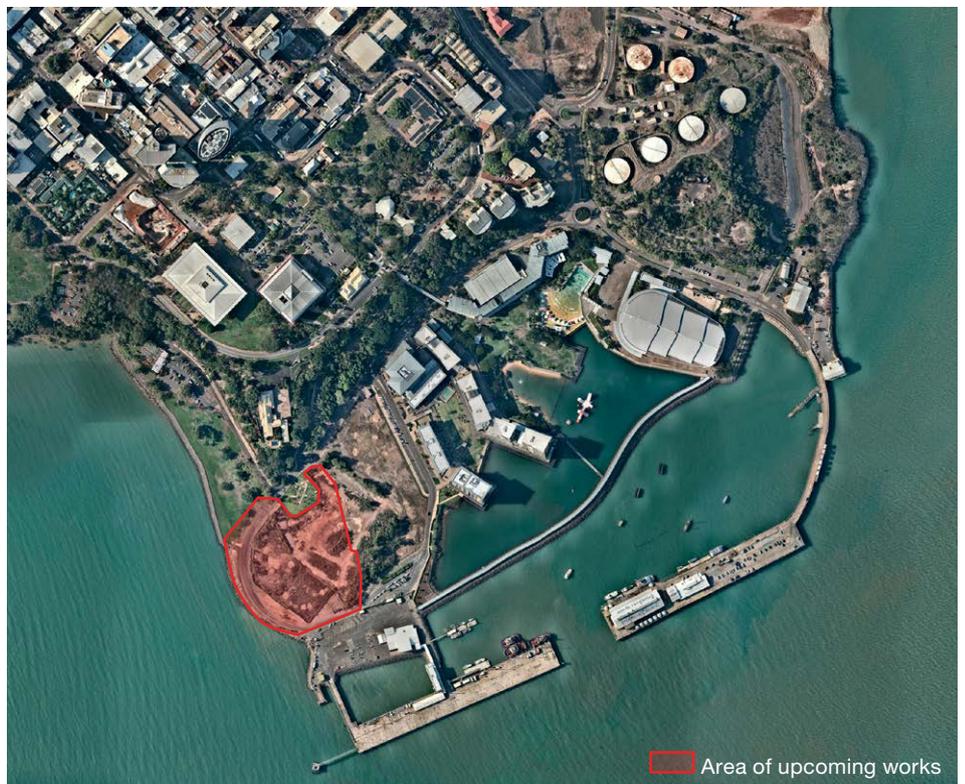

Construction related traffic is expected to increase once works begin on site, which will be managed by McMahon Services in line with their approved traffic management plan.

Kitchener Drive will be closed to all traffic from the Cruise Ship Terminal gate to Jervis Road to facilitate construction of the new seawall between Jervis Park and Fort Hill Wharf.

A revised traffic arrangement will be implemented in front of the Cruise Ship Terminal to facilitate Anchorage Court traffic movements during the construction phase, until the new loop road is constructed. The temporary parking arrangements that have been in operation in this area will consequently be unavailable, in order to facilitate the revised traffic movements.

Local residents and businesses will be kept informed ahead of any temporary disruption caused by these works.

We are also pleased to advise that we intend to hold an industry briefing later this year to provide more information to all interested contractors about the capability requirements for the construction of the next stages of this landmark hotel.

Site hoarding will be installed along the site boundary.
